Miss Alice Courtney continues to improve nicely. Mrs. T. W. Current is among the sick. Dr. H. M. Boxley and Master John Reynolds are quite ill. Mrs. Wm. Parker has returned from Massie Memorial Hospital, Paris, where she underwent a slight operation of the nose a few days ago, and is improving nicely.

REPORT OF SWEENEY SALE

A large crowd, despite the cold and inclement weather, attended the sale of livestock, crop and farming implements held by M. C. Sweeney, on the premises on the Georgetown pike, Wednesday. The sale was conducted by Auctioneer George D. Speakes. Cows sold from $55 to $110, horses, young Percheron stock, from $25 to $125; hay, $17.25 a ton. Farming implements brought good prices.

The securable success is through the building of one good useful deed upon another.

DEATHS.

—The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clift, who died at the home of its parents, on Massie avenue, was interred in the family lot in the Paris Cemetery, Monday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock.

SPIRES.

—Mrs. I. W. Spires, aged sixty-five, died in Danville, following a long illness from a complication of diseases. Her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Bourne, of Paris, accompanied by her husband, was called to her bedside during her last hours. The funeral and burial took place at Rolling Fork, in Boyle county.

CONKWRIGHT

—The funeral of Mrs. Nancy Conkwright, aged ninety-one, who died at her home near North Middletown, was held Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, with services conducted at the grave in the North Middletown Cemetery, by Rev. F. M. Tindler, pastor of the North Middletown church. Mrs. Conkwright is survived by two sons, James Conkwright, of Bourbon county, and David Conkwright, of Bath county.

JOHNSON

—Mrs. Lary Johnson, aged about fifty, died recently at the family home near Ford, in Clark county. She is survived by her second husband, Lary Johnson, two sons, one daughter, four brothers, her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Parker, of Fayette county, and four sisters, one of whom, Mrs. Lucy Hisle, resides in Bourbon county.

The funeral was held at the family home Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock, conducted by Rev. Hall. The burial followed in the family burying ground.

HUGHES.

—Harrison Hughes, aged thirty-five, died Tuesday morning at his home near Black's Cross Roads, this county, after a three-weeks' illness of typhoid fever.

Mr. Hughes was a native of Nicholas county, but had been a resident of Bourbon county for the past two years. He is survived by his widow and one child, his mother, Mrs. Lucinda Hughes, one sister, Mrs. Henrietta Moreland, and five brothers.

The body was taken to the home of his mother, where the funeral was held Wednesday morning. The interment took place in the Carlisle cemetery.

BROWN.

—Wm. K. Brown, aged thirty-four, a former resident of Paris, died suddenly Monday night at his home in Louisville. He had been in declining health for several years, due to a physical trouble of long standing.

Mr. Brown was a son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Brown, who moved from Paris to Melbourne, Ky., about seven years ago. He was a nephew of Mrs. Louis Mussion, of Paris. Besides his parents he is survived by two brothers, Ernest Brown, of Melbourne, Ky., and Chas. Brown, of Youngstown, Ohio.

The body was brought to the home of Mrs. Louis Mussion, on South Main street, Tuesday evening. The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, with services conducted at the grave in the Paris Cemetery, by Rev. C. H. Greer, pastor of the Methodist church.

WHITE

—James Daugherty received a telegram yesterday from Mrs. Clark White, formerly of Paris, announcing the death in New Brunswick, New Jersey, late Wednesday night, of her husband, Prof. Clark White.

The telegram gave no particulars, save that the body would be taken to the home of his parents, in Centralia, Mo., for interment. Prof. White was a resident of Paris for some time, having been a member of the Paris High School faculty as teacher of mathematics under the administration of Prof. T. A. Hendricks, as superintendent of the Paris schools. He was a young man of the highest type of manhood, and possessed of an amiable disposition that made him a host of friends here. He married Miss Clara Belle O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neill, residents of Paris, now residing in Philadelphia, Pa. Prof. White was in his thirty-fifth year at the time of his death. He had been Principal for some time of the Boys' Preparatory School in New Brunswick. The sincere sympathies of his many friends here go out to Mrs. White in her bereavement.

SUES FOR DIVORCE.

A. B. Thomason, of Lexington, formerly of Bourbon county, a brother of W. A. Thomason has filed suit for absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Lillian H. Thomason. The petition alleges that on or about Christmas Day, 1920, while he was convalescing from a long illness Mrs. Thomason abandoned him. Mr. Thomason asks for divorce from bed and board. They were married, he states, on November 14, 1918. He is represented by Attorney Virgil Chapman, of Franklin, Talbot & Chapman.

PARIS MEN HONORED

At a meeting of the Catholic Welfare Council of the Lexington district of the Covington Diocese, held in Lexington, Henry J. Santen, Sr., of Paris, was elected vice-president, and James Bonfield, formerly of Paris, was selected as executive secretary. The Council will continue the work started during the world-war of establishing club houses and other social facilities for use of Catholic young men.

THE FRIENDSHIP OF BOOKS

Penelon once said that if all the crowns of Europe were offered him on condition that he would no longer read books, he would spurn the crowns.

Penelon did not speak of books indiscriminately, but of those wise and good and great books in which there is distilled the "life-blood" of a master spirit, treasured up to a life beyond life. Without such books "God is silent, justice dormant, natural science at a standstill, philosophy lame, letters dumb, and all things involved in darkness."

There is every kind of company among books, as in society; and a choice of friends and associates is as necessary in the one case as the other. Every worthy and imperishable piece of literature reveals the personality of some man—is, indeed, some man. It is immersed in, colored and charged with, his conceptions of truth, his ideals of life, his traits of character, his moral and spiritual bias. The author's mastery of facts, his breath of view, his art in selecting words and rounding sentences, the symmetry, promotion and unity of his work, are all important. But his attitude toward life is the really essential thing, for we are to admit him to the privacy of our thoughts, and take him into our bosom as a friend.

We should no more choose books for their style, primarily than we should choose our companions by the fashion of their dress. Character is everything.

Poe is mysterious, weird and depressing. Carlyle is the soul of rugged honesty, the hater of all shams. Lamb is the poet of kindly, gentle and delicate humor. Milton is the poet of steadfast will and deep religious purpose, resting on God and moving quietly amid the dread realities of existence. Tennyson is the poet of law, and love, and rational faith. Browning is the prophet of sane and wholesome optimism. Wordsworth is a guide into the secrets of nature and the charm of lakes and fields. Ruskin is the interpreter of the soul of art and of social phenomena.

Nothing is more obvious, when we reflect on it, than that books have character, moral and spiritual qualities, and are alive and active, seizing upon the imagination and moulding us in their own image.

The moral tone in literature distinguishes the writers of books as clearly as a man's features distinguish him from others. One, like Omar, looks out upon life as sordid, trivial and evanescent. Another, like Dante, regards it as noble, earnest and divine. Some men, like Dostoevsky, give us a sense of evil, hopelessness and of catastrophe. Others, such as Addison and Goldsmith, make us feel, when we have spent an hour with them, that we have breathed the air of mountains and been bathed in the sun. "Some books are to be tasted; others to be swallowed; and some few to be chewed and digested."

A GOVERNMENT RULING

THE NEWS is asked to give publicity to the following special notice sent out under Government authority:

"Every person entering a picture show during the time the house is open for a performance, must have paid war tax at the box office to the amount of ten per cent. of the total admission price. A special war tax ticket is issued for the use of all persons not required to purchase general admission tickets. This ruling applies to all excepting the regular employees of the operating company."

IN NEW POSITION

Ben C. Ingels, formerly of Paris, has purchased the business of the Marks-Wert Electrical Co., in Danville, and will take charge on March 1. Mr. Ingels recently returned from France, where he served in the A. E. F. as first lieutenant, and has since been stationed at Camp Jessup, Georgia. Mr. Ingels will resign at once in order to take charge of the Danville concern.

Don't let your prejudice or bias keep you from letting other people have a say about your plans.

The road is short to anything we fear. Men never fear success.

Do you know that anger is never without a reason. But it's always a poor one!

How is it that a fellow with lots of money can be a bad egg, but no one objects until he is broke?

The things which hurt should teach us a lesson.

Every day men are taken by surprise and the nap of the neck and promoted.
